

Field Doctor Ltd

Field Doctor produce a range of ready meals for a range of health conditions such as IBS and diabetes. Designed by the in-house dietician, the meals are locally sourced whenever possible, use seasonal produce and small batch cooking.

Field Doctor's healthy ready meal company were successful in their REPF grant application to enhance production capacity with a large new 150 litre electric commercial boiling pan.

The new boiling pan allows for more efficient meal production, working alongside existing equipment to produce complete batches, thereby increasing both the capacity and the quality of their products for customers with varying health conditions. The introduction of the new equipment helps to maintain staff activity and interest and the aim is to grow the business by introducing new product lines.
