

Co-production - Easy Read

Co-production is when many people work together to achieve something.

At North Somerset Council we think that co-production is very important.

It is important for us to work together as equal partners.

What does co-production mean to us?

People and council workers working together.

People making decisions together.

People being able to suggest their own ideas and give their opinions.

Listening and hearing the thoughts and opinions of everyone.

Talking to people about what is important to them.

Everybody working together as a team.

These things are important for good co-production.

Giving people enough time to think and prepare.

Making sure people understand.

Valuing and using people's abilities and skills.

Are you interested in co-producing with us?

If you are interested in doing co-production, please do let us know.
