

Spotlight report: falls and fractures - Q-

Osteoporosis prevalence

The prevalence of osteoporosis in North Somerset for the population aged over 50 years was 2.4% as of 2022/23. This compares to 1.3% regionally and 1.0% nationally. The prevalence has increased in recent years from 0.4% in 2012/13. In real terms, this is an increase from around 347 people to 2,413 people.

Emergency hospital admissions due to falls

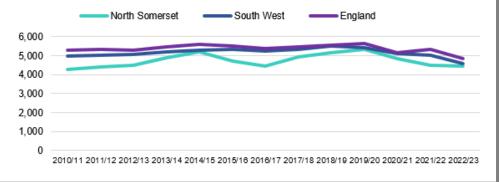

Emergency hospital admissions due to falls in people aged 65 years and over have gotten better. As of 2019/20, the rate was 2,003 per 100,000 and now decreased to 1,830 in 2022/22. However, this is a slightly higher rate compared to last year's number of 1,752.

Emergency hospital admissions due to falls in people aged 65 and over

Emergency hospital admissions due to falls in people aged 80 years and over have gotten better in recent years. As of 2019/20, the rate was 5,319 per 100,000 and decreased to 4,444 in 2022/23.

Emergency hospital admissions due to falls in people aged 80 and over

Hip fractures

The rate per 100,000 of hip fractures for those aged over 65 years in North Somerset has remained fairly steady over recent years. In 2010/11 the rate was 569 per 100,000, as of 2022/23 it was 581 per 100,000. The rate is similar to regional and national averages.

Hip fractures in people aged 65 and over

The rate per 100,000 of hip fractures for those aged over 80 years in North Somerset has fluctuated over recent years. In 2010/11 the rate was 1,599 per 100,000, as of 2022/23 it was 1,474 per 100,000. The rate is similar to regional and national averages.

Hip fractures in people aged 80 and over

